I have examined the Madras bye-laws of several Municipalities. No such provision as is contained in bye-law 3 is to be found in those sets of bye-laws of the Slaughter Houses Model. It is for orders whether any such provision need be made in such a form as is suggested. Besides, rules or bye-laws as to the places to be used as slaughter houses seem to have no place in bye-laws relating to licensing, regulation and inspection of Markets. Under this bye-law also arises the provision of the bye-laws which allows the opening of private slaughter houses under licences from Markets. Rule 10(1)(b) If this view is accepted, then the amendments suggested in general & bye-laws 1-3 become unnecessary though a combination of the Markets and slaughter house bye-laws was proposed in the note in the first instance. It is hence formed that the draft bye-laws do fully serve the purpose, as many provisions which are found in slaughter houses will also have to be added here. It seems therefore best to omit bye-law 3, and through

Separate bye-laws may be framed for slaughter houses
